Lady Indians' repeat year's Top Story

By Mason Mitcham

Two Cross Country championships in a row. It's hard enough to win one championship. Repeating is a different story.

That's why the 2013 Cross Country Championship by the Towns County Lady Indians rings in the New Year as Towns County's Top Story of 2013.

Nothing could have prepared Towns County Head Coach Jeannie Ledford for the emotional impact of that news she received at the end of the Class A Public School Cross Country State Championship race in November.

The team traveled to Carrollton to compete for their second consecutive state title on Nov. 9, running against familiar powerhouses Trion, Commerce, and Gordon Lee.

Coach Ledford was by turns giddy and nervous all day. Because Class A schools ran at the very end of the day, the tension stretched on and on. She paced, put her team through their warm-ups, and called them in for a final pre-race huddle, where she spoke to them quietly, but with her typical urgency.

As the sky darkened and a slow chill crept into the air, the Class A schools took the starting line. Ledford's boys ran first. The girls ran shortly afterward. Together, the races that Ledford had trained her team all year for in the case of her seniors, many years, took barely an hour.

When the dust from many running shoes cleared, the Towns County girls' Cross

TCMS a School of Excellence

By Azure Welch

Georgia State School Superintendent Dr. John Barge arrived in Hiwassee Dec. 12 to present Towns County Middle School with its 2012 Georgia School of Excellence Award.

The ceremony was held in the school auditorium.

TCMS was named the Highest Performing schools in the 9th Congressional District based on the College and Career-Ready Performance Index.

When the new College and Career Readiness Index scores were released several months ago, TCMS ranked No. 1 in the state when compared to 180 other middle school systems in Georgia with an overall score of 99.4. When compared to an estimated 400 individual middle schools, TCMS ranked second overall only one tenth of a point below the top school.

"Words can't express how happy I am for my teachers and these students," said TCMS Principal Dr. Darren Berrong. "What a testament to the hard work they have put in over the past few years. Many of the schools on this list are either Magnet or Charter schools. When I see Towns County Middle School listed side by side with these schools I am simply overcome with pride for this school and this community. In my opinion, there is no greater achievement or recognition than being named a Georgia School of Excellence in Student Achievement."

Towns County Schools Superintendent Melissa Williams was just as proud of the honor bestowed upon TCMS.

"I join with Dr. Berrong in congratulating the students, faculty and staff at Towns County Middle School on receiving this outstanding honor," Williams said. "This is a testament to the entire community and the value Towns County places on providing a quality education for our students. These teachers and students have worked hard. What a fitting reward for their

The Towns County Indians celebrated a successful second half to their season on Nov. 1, with a solid 34-19 season-ending victory over Hebron Christian.

The Indians scored 24 unanswered first half points before the Lions tacked on a touchdown late in the first half.

Until Head Coach Blair Harrison arrived, the Indians had only dealt with the Wing-T offense on defense. It was a learning process, and a process that found them 0-5 to begin the season.

Obviously, the Indians caught on to the Harrison offense and made a go of it in the second half.

They finish the season 4-6 with bright prospects for the 2014 season.

In the season finale, the Indians hit the locker room with a 24-6 lead, and the comfort that Hebron didn't have a history of come-from-behind wins.

The Indians put 10 points on the board in the first quarter, thanks to a Harrison Hobbs touchdown. Kicker Shea Underwood added the extra point

When Commissioner Bill Kendall started to run for office, he had a proposition for the people of Towns County.

"When I started to run for office, I wanted to give the county a recreation facility that would serve the public for 50 years to come. That's how I described and designed it," he said.

Eight years later, that dream has come true.

The new Towns County Recreation and Conference Center held its ribbon-cutting ceremony on Dec. 14 to the delight and satisfaction of the involved community.

Gov. Nathan Deal, House Speaker David Ralston and Christian Taylor made sure of that.

Following behind Towns County Sheriff Chris Clinton, the trio led the largest parade in the 63-year history of the Georgia Mountain Fair.

When the horseless carriages carrying Taylor, Gov. Deal and Speaker Ralston crossed the Robert Anderson Bridge, the last leg of the parade

TCSO says goodbye to Lt. Brian Wilson, Deputy Amy Burch

By Libby Shook

It's never easy for any law enforcement agency to say goodbye to one officer.

The Towns County Sheriff's Office had to say goodbye to two officers in 2013, Lt. Wilson, and Deputy Amy Burch.

Lt. Wilson, a deputy sheriff with the Towns County Sheriff's Office, passed away Friday afternoon, May 3, 2013, following a one car motor vehicle accident which occurred on April 28, 2013.

Lt. Wilson was transported to the Chatuge Regional Emergency Room and then to North Georgia Medical Center in Gainesville, where he remained until his passing.

Friends, family and fellow law enforcement officers paid their last respects to Lt. Wilson at Burch Cemetery on Sunnyside Road, Georgia 288.

The final tribute and farewell to the beloved, young marine and peace officer, who served his country and his county with great honor, valor, and unflinching dedication, was one of highest regard and great respect.

Sheriffs, deputies, police officers, and state troopers from all over the Southeast lined the drive leading up to the burial site. The officers stood military-style and saluted as the hearse traveled up the narrow drive with family members and friends following close behind.

As Lt. Wilson's flag-draped coffin was removed from the hearse, the peace officers maintained their salute until the coffin was placed at his final resting place.

Pastor Anthony Dye provided a moving tribute and memorial to this beloved
