10&U Softball places fifth in World Series

By Christy Giles
Special to The Herald

The 10&U Towns County Lady Indians softball team left Hiwassee on Tuesday, July 9th, all revved up and ready to take Mississippi by storm.

They arrived in South Haven late Tuesday night. On Wednesday, they participated in the opening ceremonies for the Dizzy Dean Fast Pitch Softball World Series. Girls from six different states came together to compete for the 10&U division National Championship.

Of the 14 teams in the 10&U division, Towns Co. and another team drew a bye and started on the road to victory in the second round of action.

The first game was played in the sweltering heat on Thursday at 3 p.m. against the neighboring Murphy, NC Bomb Squad.

Both teams fought hard to score, but Towns County was first on the board with a run by short stop, Anna Ruryk in the bottom of the 3rd inning.

Murphy managed to steal home in the 4th inning, tying the score. The Lady Indians rallied up in the bottom of the 5th, thanks to a hit by left fielder, Bianca Eller, Remington Parker and Abby Mauldin crossed home plate. Shortly following were runs by Lindsey Giles, Bianca Eller, and Ariana Bradshaw with Alissa Moss sending in the last run, adding five more runs to the board.

Through teamwork by catcher Sophia Shook and pitcher Kennedi Henson, outs at bases by Parker and Kaytrie Bradshaw, the Towns County Lady Indians held Murphy to see their first win with a score of 6-1.

The Lady Indians met up with Delta Storm from Greenwood, Miss. on Friday July 12th at 8:30 p.m.

Luckily, the temperature had dropped some. The Lady Indians played tough, working hard to keep Delta Storm from scoring. Eller and Ruryk making spectacular catches, awesome teamwork by the infield and outfield, were just not enough to stop this storm. In the bottom of the fifth inning, the opposing team was winning 3-0.

In the sixth inning they brought in another run, making the final score 4-0, giving the Lady Indians their first loss.

Towns played the Murphy Bomb Squad, again, at 3 p.m. on Saturday. The Lady Indians came out strong, but unfortunately could not hold off the Bomb Squad.

In the top of the 4th inning the score was 3-0 with Murphy winning. In the 5th inning, Sophia Shook came across the plate to give the Indians their only run of the game. The final score ended up being 7-1, with the win going to Murphy.

This loss was the double elimination needed to put the Lady Indians out of the tournament.

However, they were ranked fifth in the World Series and received the Sportsmanship Award for their age division.

These girls played hard and came a long way together. Ranking fifth out of 14 teams, from counties with triple the number of girls we have, they really are a spectacular group of young women and all of them have a bright future in Towns County sports.

Thank you Towns County for all of your support. Thank you Mr. Bill Kendall, Wes Hooper, and Alan Rogers.

Vickers is victorious at New Hampshire

Brian Vickers pulled off an upset of sorts, by winning Sunday's Sprint Cup race at New Hampshire. It was the Michael Waltrip Racing driver's third career win, and first since Michigan in 2009.

"Man, this car was good today," said Vickers. "We really showed everyone what we could do. They gave me a car that I knew was good of winning."

"After the last restart, I knew I had the car. It handled great, and I was able to drive to the front. When I got the lead, I was pretty sure no one was going to be able to catch me."

Vickers didn't take the lead until lap 286 of the 301-lap race. He caught and passed Tony Stewart, and then held off Kyle Busch on a green-white-checked finish.

"I think we were the fastest car," said Kyle Busch, who finished second. "When I got into lap traffic, I couldn't turn it. We've got to figure out how to get better on the long runs."

Jeff Burton ran in the top-5 for most of the day and finished third.

"We had a good car," said Burton. "I was able to run up front most of the race. We've usually been able to run better than our results show. Most of the races we've been in the top-10, but things have happened late in the race to take us out."

Brad Keselowski, the pole sitter finished fourth, followed by Eric Almirola, Jimmie Johnson, Kevin Harvick, Carl Edwards, Matt Kenseth, and Jeff Gordon.

Tony Stewart, who ran strong in the latter stage of the race, ran out of fuel with two laps to go, and wound up 26th.

"I was pretty nervous there at the end," said Stewart. "I knew it was going to be close, but that last caution didn't help. I just got tired of trying to calculate fuel mileage and drove."

Kurt Busch had a fast car, but was involved in two separate accidents and finished 31st.

Danica Patrick lost control of her car on lap 237. She slid up the track into Travis Kvapil, who made contact with Patrick's boyfriend Ricky Stenhouse. None of these three drivers completed the race. Stenhouse was 34th, with Patrick being credited with 37th, and Kvapil 38th.

Kyle Busch dominated Saturday's Nationwide race at New Hampshire. Not only did he start on the pole, but led the most laps, and survived three green-white-checked finishes on the way to his 58th career Nationwide victory.

Brian Vickers finished second, followed by Austin Dillon, Brian Scott, Michael Annett, Trevor Bayne, Sam Hornish, Alex Smith, Matt Kenseth, and Regan Bowman.

The remaining top-10 finishers were: James Buescher, Ron Hornaday, Chase Elliott, Matt Crafton, Miguel Paludo, Darrell Wallace, Joey Coulter, and Dakoda Armstrong.

JACK ROUSH SLOWING DOWN

Jack Roush said in an interview last week with USA TODAY Sports, that he was "moving to the sidelines."

"There aren't so many firsts left for me, but I've not lost my passion for competition or my desire to operate at the top of my game," Roush said, "I just look forward to enjoying vicariously the success of drivers winning their first race or championship, and the crew chiefs and engineers able to share in those firsts. It's less about me and more about being a parent or a grandparent to them."

Roush is the founder and CEO of Roush Fenway Racing and has a net worth of $200 million. He earned his money through his company "Roush Enterprises" which covers racing, freelance engineering and the selling of high performance automobiles and car parts and as co-owner of Roush Fenway Racing.

Brian Vickers, New Hampshire Cup winner.

Roush was born in Covington, Kentucky and earned a Mathematics degree with a bachelors in physics from Berea College, and a masters in Scientific Mathematics from Eastern Michigan University.

Roush worked at Ford after graduating in 1966, and left in 1970 to pursue his own company. He worked for a year at Chrysler before leaving to open his own engineering business, that catered to NHRA, IHRA, and AHRA drag racing events.

Throughout much of his career Roush offered for sale the parts that he developed for his own team. In 1982, he began to develop road racing vehicles for Ford. This led to a very successful run in the Trans-Am series and IMSA Camel GT in the 80s and early 90s.

In 1988, Roush moved south and founded a NASCAR Sprint Cup team now called Roush Fenway Racing with driver Mark Martin.

On April 20, 2002, Roush almost lost his life when his private plane, went down in a lake in Troy, Alabama. Roush was underwater and unconscious, suffering from a head concussion, when a retired Marine in a nearby boat, rescued him.

On July 27, 2010, Roush crash-landed in his private jet, during an approach to the Oshkosh, Wisconsin Airport in the late afternoon. He walked out of the plane and was taken to a nearby hospital. He suffered a fractured back, broken jaw, and lost his left eye as a result.

After a quarter-century of owning stock-car teams that have 314 wins in NASCAR and two championships in its premier series, Roush still works seven days a week but doesn't set his alarm for dawn anymore. He no longer spends 90 minutes before every race tinkering with each of his cars' carburetors.

Until a couple years ago, Roush could always be spotted with his trademark hat, inspecting all the spark plugs that were to be used in his team's race cars.

"I've gone from wanting to be the mechanic that I hoped everyone else would be to now I'm the point-and-grunt guy," Roush continued. "Hopefully, I'll become less viable before I'm gone. The challenge is to give up the management and decision-making at the right time."
